

Problem Statement

With many areas continuing to grow, traffic lights have become an issue with causing congestion during hours of high volume.

Details

With many areas continuing to grow, a new issue arising is the congestion of roads and intersections due to stop lights being optimized poorly. Stop lights are no longer optimized to incorporate large volumes of traffic during rush hour.